Literacy

We have continued our work on non-fiction texts this week, reading The Street Beneath my Feet and other examples of non-fiction writing.

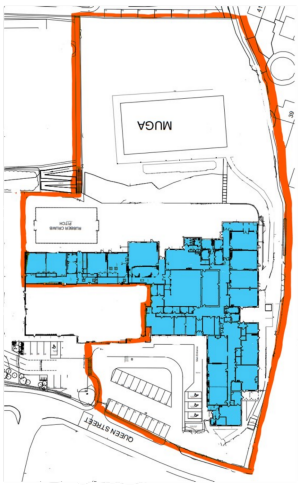

The children have been retrieving information from books and answering questions. They have also learnt about the features of non-fiction texts and have been identifying these in books.

Topic

In Topic this week, Robins have been learning about emergency warning systems. We learnt about why emergency warning systems are important to keep people safe and the different ways people are warned about different natural disasters in countries around the world.

We then thought about the emergency warning system we have at Haughton School when there is a fire. The children wrote rules for when there is an emergency and drew an evacuation route to our safety point.

We finished the week by using all our learning about volcanoes to produce art work of a volcano erupting! The children thought about what the magma, lava and gas would look like and used different mediums to create their own piece of art.

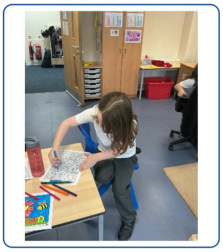

Mental Health Day

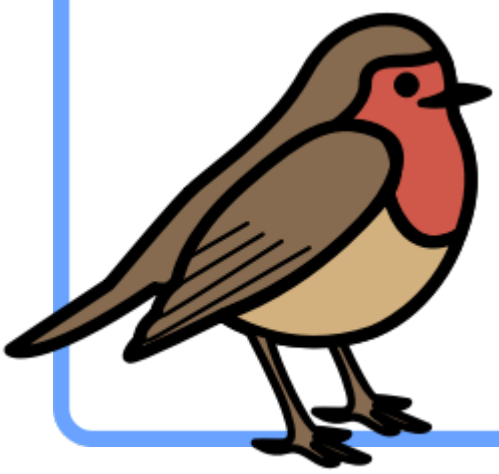

To celebrate Mental Health Day, Robins class enjoyed lots of different activities that make us happy! Children enjoyed singing and dancing to their favourite songs, colouring, reading and doing sensory circuits. There were smiles all round!
