

This week has been full of discovery and sensory fun! In our topic sessions, we've been busy classifying animals- mammals, reptiles, birds, and insects. The children loved getting hands-on with sensory play as we explored the different body parts that make each animal unique. Insects and reptiles were definitely the favourites!

Outdoors, we've been nature detectives! The children explored patterns and textures in the environment, using bark and leaf rubbings to create beautiful nature-inspired art. It was a lovely way to connect with the world around us and get creative at the same time.

We've finished our story of the week, The Shark in the Park! Some children have been experimenting with mark-making using different materials, while others have been working hard on their pencil control. It's been wonderful to see their confidence grow and their imaginations shine.

The rain hasn't stopped our fun this week; in fact, it's added to it! The children have absolutely loved splashing in puddles and embracing the wet weather. If you could send in wellies and waterproofs, it'll help us keep the puddle-jumping more comfortable.

Have a lovely weekend.
