

This week the children have enjoyed listening to our new story - 'An Itch To Scratch' by Damian Harvey. We have watched videos of the different animals found in the story and identified them on a word mat.

In Numeracy we have been identifying how many is in a set without counting. We have completed activities including finger painting the same amounts in different ways.

In Sensory Explore the children have really enjoyed exploring a cornflour and conditioner mix. They have pressed it in to ice-cream moulds before tapping it and it falling apart again. Another favourite was exploring dried instant mash potato. Our role play area is an ice-cream parlour.

We have jumped on bubble wrap over paint and watched how the colours change.

Our latest display has been a real hit. It contains a mix of different textures and activities and the children are really engaged with it.
